ABOUT THE RESOURCE

Training: how real can it get? Mission Ready is an e-learning platform that uses cutting edge game technology to enhance learning through real-time, 'point-of-view' interactive video scenarios. Through these, Mission Ready will challenge participants to answer questions and make decisions, after which blow-by-blow feedback is given to help participants understand and learn from each decision point. The use of these interactive scenarios alongside written and other filmed content results in an immersive e-learning experience that is engaging, and responsive.

ABOUT THE COURSE: Field Security Management

The Field Security Management course is aimed at mainstreaming established security protocols and behaviours into the daily life of all field-based staff in a humanitarian response or hostile environment. Developed by security experts from across the humanitarian sector, including EISF, Oxfam, Save the Children and RedR UK, Mission Ready will get every member of your team thinking about and applying the essential security protocols needed to keep staff members safe while on mission.

Course Summary: The content of each module has been developed to suit those approaching field security for the first time. Learners can read, print and return to this content at any time. The six course modules cover:

1. Context Assessment
2. Threats, Vulnerability and Risk
3. Security Strategies
4. Security Risk Management
5. Staff Management for Security
6. Incident Reporting and Management

Documentaries: Newly developed theoretical content is introduced through micro-documentaries laying out the key learning points of the course over six accessible modules. Documentaries include interviews from prominent experts in the security sector.

Interactive Scenarios: At the end of the course, interactive scenarios will test the learner's ability to apply the approaches and measures contained in the course content. Essential theory will immediately be put into practice in real-life simulation exercises where participants will have to make decisions around: conducting risk assessments, planning for incidents, ensuring local staff 'buy in' to security procedures, and managing security incidents.

HOW WILL MISSION READY BE MADE AVAILABLE?

User licenses can be purchased individually or in bundles. The licence fees will pay for the ongoing hosting, maintenance and sustainability of the Mission Ready resource to ensure that it remains a current and viable tool. The fees fit within a banded fee structure, allowing local staff and local NGOs to access the tool at much lower rates. This, along with the e-learning nature of the tool, will increase access to quality training for tough-to-reach staff in field locations.
